

A WONDERMENT

Often times I wonder why this country owes so much money and why some outlandish things are done or understood to be the correct thing. Just a few years ago (about 50 or 60 I guess) My Parents and about everybody else I recon worked for a living and believed in God or some supreme being and had no time for what is called today “political correctness”. Then things began to slowly change, politicians found out what their voters wanted and began to slowly “give” it to them. A grant for the local town to enlarge a Airport that had been built with local funds. Everybody in town was real happy that a government grant had been obtained to make the local airport bigger. Pretty soon a National Political Party (the Democrats) came out for “civil rights” what ever that meant. Most of the country was all for it except some areas of America was not for certain segments of the idea but most every one in the country was soon either “in compliance” with the civil rights law or not in compliance. When the local school board was not in compliance they would not be able to continue to receive Federal Funds and that caused turmoil because people had already been employed to work in the Federal program of local education and that was political death. The same applied to any one working in some level of government.

The current President has remarked that He and His Henchmen were going to transform the country. We would not even recognize it. He has to date not said what the transformation would be. The only ones that can transform the Government is the people. The reason is simple, The Constitution. America is unique in its constitution or foundation of government. The only thing that can cause the change is the People forgetting about this wonderful document. The Fat Cat Education Officials from the local to the state government is responsible for the teaching of this document to local High School students. A lot of these Fat Cats evidently do not care that the constitution is taught or not taught. No students should be allowed to graduate from High School without a sound knowledge of the foundation of our federal government. Congress themselves evidently don’t know anything about it and the President and His Czars certainly do not. I only hope, enough of the voting public do know about the constitution and always vote to keep it foremost in front of the politicians lying eyes.
