

WHY ALL THE LYING, OR IS IT NOT TELLING ALL THE TRUTH?

I accused the Pres. of lying. That might not be true in the world of the politician and His Czars. I will refer to the Czars as advisors because that is what they are. A group of Progressive Radicals He agreed to employ in the White House to fundamentally change America. The people who work in the white house for the most part have never had to work in the real world. If they say something is half true the rest of what they are telling is true and the other half is true because half of it is true. Now, I was raised by a man who demanded life was not like that at all. If any part of some thing you re telling is half a lie the whole thing is a lie. I believe the same way because if he ever caught me in a lie it would be rough. Those people in the first group also believe their way is right and go ahead and do something and if you get caught just take the punishment or try and lie out of it or maybe get by changing the subject. My dad being a orphan from age six that raised him self developed his philosophy of life rooted in that environment, tell the truth and do what is right regardless of the outcome. Mr. Obama has been caught on camera several times telling stories or really lies. Maybe His Czars gave Him wrong info. I don't know and not supposed to know, I am not one of His czars. One thing for sure, being President he needs to get His "ducks all in a row".